IASC's leading program encompasses a one-week introductory course tailored to providing the legal training necessary to become a future international arbitration player.

The Madrid edition was held from June 19 to 24, 2017 and provided firsthand knowledge from highly regarded professionals - arbitrators, lawyers, experts, academics and representatives of arbitral institutions - who shared experiences only available through a one-on-one approach. The course walked attendees through all stages of the arbitral procedure, with lectures, workshops and a mock case. Furthermore, IASC organized social events that were an ideal forum for attendees to exchange thoughts and enrich their network.

Mock Case

The distinguishing feature of IASC is that all its lectures are delivered in the context of a Mock Case.

Attendees have the unique opportunity to prepare a case and present oral arguments as claimants and respondents during mock hearing rounds. The 2017 IASC Mock Case was based on three of the Annual Willem C. Vis Moot cases (editions 19th, 20th and 22nd). Although the problem arose from a contractual dispute governed by the CISG, the students were directed to focus exclusively on the procedural issues during the hearings, including joinder of non-signatory parties, the exclusion of witness statements and conflict of interest.

Prior to the mock hearing, students were provided with the skills necessary to become strong international arbitration advocates through two interactive workshops: one on oral advocacy and the other on written submissions.

Hearings

On the last day of the course, students and arbitrators gathered at the venue of the Corte de Arbitraje de Madrid to participate to the mock hearings.

The hearings simulated a real arbitration hearing in which students faced each other in teams representing claimant and respondent.

Students had to analyze the legal issues contained in the Mock Case before three member tribunals composed by reputed arbitration practitioners.

This exercise allowed students to enhance their advocacy skills and work closely with their peers.
